Born in England in 1953, Captain Turner was offered a commission in the Royal Navy but decided instead to join the Merchant Navy. He sailed on general cargo ships, container vessels, bulk carriers, and in the Falklands, the base supply tanker, Scottish Eagle. After two years sailing on supply ships and anchor handlers, in the North Sea while raising a family, he returned to deep sea ships and was promoted to Master at the age of 38. He joined Windstar Cruises in 1997, and then HAL in 2004 having cruised the Mediterranean, New Zealand, Costa Rica and Tahiti under sail. He still lives in the south of England with his wife Avril. They have two grown sons, and enjoy long distance walks together when they are not at sea.
